PREFACE

THIS BOOKLET IS PUBLISHED IN THE HOPE IT WILL INTEREST MORE AND MORE WOMEN TO THE VITAL JOB WHICH FACES ALL AMERICAN CITIZENS— THE DEVELOPMENT OF BETTER GOVERNMENT FOR ALL THE PEOPLE. OUR GOVERNMENT IS WHAT WE— THE VOTERS—MAKE IT. UNLESS WE ARE INTERESTED ENOUGH TO MAKE IT WORK RIGHT, IT WILL NOT WORK FOR US.

IN THIS BOOK WE PAY TRIBUTE TO THOSE WOMEN IN OUR STATE WHO HAVE WORKED AT GOVERNMENT BY SERVING IN PUBLIC OFFICE.

MANY MORE ARE ACTIVE WITHOUT RUNNING FOR OFFICE THEMSELVES. THESE TOO, WE HONOR, BUT THERE ARE THOUSANDS AND THOUSANDS MORE WHO HAVE NO INTEREST IN GOVERNMENT— THESE WE WANT TO AWAKEN TO A SENSE OF THEIR OWN INDIVIDUAL RESPONSIBILITY TO HELP GOVERN THEMSELVES.

DEDIGATION

This volume is respectfully dedicated to the memory of one of the most loved and admired figures in the political history of our state, Belle Reeves, who served as a member of the Washington State Legislature for 16 years and as Secretary of State for ten years.

Words in praise of Belle Reeves would add but little to the luster of her name, suffice it to note that ten years after she became the first woman in the state's history to hold a high state office, she left it— in death— with even greater love and acclaim than when she first took over.

Fittingly enough Mrs. Reeves first came to Washington in 1889, the year it became a state. She was first elected to the legislature in 1922 and served in eight sessions until 1938 when she was appointed by Governor Clarence D. Martin to fill the un-expired term of Ernest Hutchinson. In 1940 she was elected and received the third highest vote of any candidate in the state. In 1944 she was re-elected, this time receiving the largest number of votes of any state candidate.

Mrs. Reeves passed away on January 2, 1948 and a fitting tribute when the first State Funeral ever to be held took place in the Chamber of the House of Representatives.

DEDICATION

BELLE REEVES Secretary of State 1938~1948

HISTORY OF WOMAN SUFFRAGE IN WASHINGTON

Throughout the 1870's there was persistent agitation for woman suffrage and as early as 1854, Arthur A. Denny had offered an amendment to the election bill conferring the ballot upon white women. Mrs. Abigail Scott Duniway of Oregon was the spearhead of the movement and she conducted a vigorous speaking and writing campaign throughout Oregon and Washington. In 1871 the Washington Territorial Legislature reacted by passing a bill stating: "That hereafter no female shall have the right of ballot or vote at any poll or election precinct in this Territory until the Congress of the United States of America shall, by direct legislation upon the same, declare the same to be the supreme law of the land."

Mrs. Duniway attended the constitutional convention of Here is the story in her own words: "A Constitutional convention had met in Walla Walla, Washington Territory, in June, 1878. It was composed of a delegation of fifteen gentlemen, and its business, as is usual in such deliberative bodies, was the creation of an initiative constitution to be ratified, or rejected by a referendum vote of the legal electorate. Acting upon the invitations of Hon. and Mrs. H. P. Isaacs, Hon. and Mrs. Philip Ritz, Judge and Mrs. Thomas H. Brents, Judge and Mrs. Mix and others, I visited the convention and was permitted to present a memorial in person, praying that the word "male" be omitted from the fundamental law of the incubating state. But my plea (like that of Abigail Adams on a like occasion on the otherside of the continent a century before) failed of acceptance at the polls; though through a close vote--it stood eight to seven--and men went on as before, saying as they did in the beginning of our struggle, "Women do not wish to vote; if they want the ballot let them ask for it." Editors note (After the convention had turned down woman suffrage as an intregal part of the proposed constitution it was submitted to the voters of the territory as a separate article but was badly defeated.)

In 1879, the Legislature approved "An Act to Establish and Protect the Rights of Married Women, "by which all laws imposing civil disabilities upon a wife were abolished, but which carefully asserted, "that this shall not confer the right to vote or hold office upon the wife."

By 1883, agitation for woman suffrage had reached the point where the Legislature on November 23 passed an act specifically defining the legal electors of the Territory and declaring: "Wherever the word 'his' occurs in the chapter aforesaid, it shall be construed to mean 'his or her,' as the case may be." Women therefore had the right to vote at the general election of 1884, to hold office and to serve as jurors. Women voted again in 1886, but in 1887 the Territorial Supreme Court took away the privilege. The Court's opinion stated that women were not competent to serve as jurors not-withstanding the act which had been passed declaring that women were "qualified electors" and therefore entitled to serve.

The issue of woman suffrage had reached a climax with the Territorial Supreme Court decision of February 3, 1887 denying women the franchise. The people of the Territory were definitely divided on the matter, but the advocates of woman suffrage were able to secure the passage of a new act by the Legislature designed to meet the Court's objections to the old law. Governor Semple approved the act although he was subjected to a severe bombardment of letters, press releases and resolutions from the opposing forces. The law as approved did not have an opportunity to become effective, however, since the State Constitution, which omitted woman suffrage, went into effect before the Territorial legislation could go into force. The Constitution was submitted to a vote of the people on October 1st and was approved 40,152 in favor to 11,879 against. As in the case of the Constitution of 1878, two separate articles were submitted to the voters, one extending the right of suffrage to women and the other prohibiting the manufacture and sale of alcoholic, malt, or spirituous liquors, except for medicinal, sacramental or scientific purposes. Both measures were lost at the October election.

HISTORY OF WOMAN SUFFRAGE IN WASHINGTON

The 3tate had been growing more progressive in politics for several years and during Governor Hay's administration the Legislature passed a number of measures for which progressives had been agitating for some time. The most notable measure passed by the 1909 Session was the proposed constitutional amendment for woman suffrage, which was adopted by the voters at the general election of 1910.

AMENDMENT 5

Art. 6 was amended by striking from said article all of sections one (1) and two (2) and inserting in lieu thereof the following, to be known as section one (1):

Sec. 1. Qualification of Electors--All persons of the age of twenty-one years or over, possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at all elections: They shall be citizens of the United States; they shall have lived in the state one year, and in the county ninety days, and in the city, town, ward or precinct thirty days immediately preceding the election at which they offer to vote; they shall be able to read and speak the English language......

(This 5th Amendment is identical to 2nd Amendment to State Constitution with the exception of the word "male" following first word "all." Fifth Amendment extending voting franchise to women by deletion of word "male" making the first two words reading "all persons.")

The Superintendent of Public Instruction

MRS. PEARL WANAMAKER (Non Partisan) has established a distinguished record in the public life of the State of Washington.
